UNITED STATES FLAGS

Nylon

Our most popular flag material! If you've seen a flag flying around your neighborhood, more than likely it is a nylon flag. Nylon is a material that flies in even the lightest breezes, giving the fullest visual effect. Not to be underestimated — this material is made of 100% 200-denier SolarMax™ nylon, making it one of the longest lasting nylon flags available. Our nylon flags feature full-filled embroidered stars and beautifully sewn stripes to display a strong sense of pride.

A Little About our Fabrics and Workmanship...

We carefully control the quality of the fabrics used in the production of our flags. All of our flags are colorfast to both sun and rain. They are lightweight in construction and have high tensile strength. Sizes 2 x 3' through 6 x 10' have heavy weight polyester canvas heading and solid brass grommets to insure durability. Sizes 8 x 12' and larger feature white polyester canvas heading with nylon ropes and galvanized metal thimbles for the added strength needed for larger flags. We take pride in delivering a top-quality flag that you can be proud to fly. Our flags exceed U.S. government standards for material and workmanship. No matter what the weather is like in your area, we have a flag for you.

QA

Q: What size flag do I need?

A: The size of your pole will help determine the size of your flag.

House mounted poles: Your flag should be 1 foot shorter in length than your pole. A 6 foot pole is ideal for a 3 x 5' flag, whereas a 5 foot pole is ideal for a 2-1/2 x 4' flag or smaller.

In-ground flagpoles: The length of your flag should be 1/4 to 1/3 the height of your pole.

For example, a 20 foot pole can fly a 3 x 5' or a 4 x 6' flag, depending on how large of a statement you would like to make.

Cotton

Strong, vibrant and beautiful! Our timeless cotton flags are constructed of heavyweight 2-ply mercerized cotton. This flag features sewn stripes and embroidered stars, which combined with its rich colors, will give your home the traditional look you are looking for.

Polyester

Rugged strength for even the strongest winds! This 100% spun polyester flag has a 2 x 2 woven construction that is intended for use in extreme weather conditions or high wind areas. Our polyester flags feature embroidered stars and sewn stripes. If you want the same rich look as a cotton flag but need the extra strength, then this material is for you.

Note: Because polyester flags are heavier than nylon flags, they may not fly as well in light breezes. This is why we recommend polyester flags to people in extreme wind or weather conditions only.

Q: What size flag and pole should I get?

A: To keep the flag from touching the house while flying, and becoming tattered more quickly, buy a pole that is 1 foot longer than the length of your flag. For a 3 x 5' flag, buy a 6 foot pole. For a 2-1/2 x 4' flag, go with a 5 foot pole.

Confederate Flags

Are you a historical flag collector? Add these beautifully dyed 3'x5' (unless otherwise noted) historical reproductions of the Confederate Flags to your collection or give as a gift. Most flags are 100% nylon and are finished with a white canvas heading and brass grommets.

C.S.A. Jack "Battle Flag"...Confusion between the 1st National and the Stars and Stripes led to the making of this flag. The Battle Flag had a blue saltire (x shape) that held 13 stars for each of the Confederate states bordered with white over a red background. This flag now rectangular was originally square and was made in a variety of sizes out of a variety of materials.

1st National Flag...The first Confederate flag also known, as the Stars and Bars Flag was similar to the Stars and Stripes. Seven stars representing the number of Confederate states laid in a blue canton in the upper left corner with three broad red and white bars running horizontally. Confusion between the two flags led to a change to the Confederate flag.

2nd National Flag...The second Confederate flag was found not to be ideal because when it wrapped around a staff only a white field, the sign for surrender, was left showing. This flag is also known as the Stainless Banner Flag.

2ND NATIONAL
ITEM NO.	SIZE	PRICE
35231870	3 x 5' nylon	$41.50

3rd National Flag...For the last several months of the Civil War a red vertical stripe was added to the fly end of the Confederate Flag. This flag was the Confederate's third and final flag and flew until General Robert E. Lee surrendered in April of 1865.

Did You Know...
 The second national Confederate flag was flown for only a brief period of time. When it was flown and wrapped around it's pole in the wind it looked like a white surrender flag, therefore the third national was created with the red vertical stripe to end the confusion.

Blue Service-Star Banner

Designed in 1917 by WWI Army Capt. Robert Quessner, the service star banner is traditionally hung in the window of the home of a person who has a family member currently serving in the U.S. military. That person can be a son, daughter, wife, husband, etc. The blue star represents one family member currently in service; a gold star on a banner represents a family member who was killed during service. Seeing these banners today in windows of homes reminds every one of us that war is not something that happens overseas on far-away lands, but is something that affects every street and neighborhood in our country. Banner is 8 x 15" with crossbar and a gold cord and tassel. Also available in 3 x 5' flag.

POW / MIA Flag

In 1971 Mrs. Michael Hoff, an MIA wife and member of the National League of Families, saw the need for a symbol of our POW/MIAs. Mrs. Hoff found Mr. Rivkees, Vice President of Annin & Company, who felt sympathetic and along with Annin's advertising agency designed a flag to represent our missing men. After receiving the League's approval the flags were manufactured for distribution. Other than "Old Glory", the League's POW/ MIA flag is the only flag ever to fly over the White House.
