Nylon

Our most popular flag material! If you've seen a flag flying around your neighborhood, more than likely it is a nylon flag. Nylon is a material that flies in even the lightest breezes, giving the fullest visual effect. Not to be underestimated — this material is made of 100% 200-denier SolarMax™ nylon, making it one of the longest lasting nylon flags available. Our nylon flags feature full-filled embroidered stars and beautifully sewn stripes to display a strong sense of pride.

A Little About our Fabrics and Workmanship...

We carefully control the quality of the fabrics used in the production of our flags. All of our flags are colorfast to both sun and rain. They are lightweight in construction and have high tensile strength. Sizes 2 x 3' through 6 x 10' have heavy weight polyester canvas heading and solid brass grommets to insure durability. Sizes 8 x 12' and larger feature white polyester canvas heading with nylon ropes and galvanized metal thimbles for the added strength needed for larger flags. We take pride in delivering a top-quality flag that you can be proud to fly. Our flags exceed U.S. government standards for material and workmanship. No matter what the weather is like in your area, we have a flag for you.

Q: What size flag do I need?

A: The size of your pole will help determine the size of your flag.

House mounted poles: Your flag should be 1 foot shorter in length than your pole. A 6 foot pole is ideal for a 3 x 5' flag, whereas a 5 foot pole is ideal for a 2-1/2 x 4' flag or smaller.

In-ground flagpoles: The length of your flag should be 1/4 to 1/3 the height of your pole.

For example, a 20 foot pole can fly a 3 x 5' or a 4 x 6' flag, depending on how large of a statement you would like to make.
